'Are we living with body?

The body is not one.

Many parts are alive and organizing each other at the same time.

The body can suggest us something where we will go.

We strain our ear into the body, into the object, into the air...

Listen, feel and receive the small motivation from outer to inner body.

Before moving, the sensation is there.

We are part of nature, part of the world. We are in between.'

Hisako Horikawa

This course is addressed to professionals and advanced levels.

Hisako Horikawa (Niigata, Japan) has studied improvisation music and was a voice performer before dance. Since 1978, she has been enquiring into the body and dance with Min Tanaka. She was the co-founder of the Body Weather Laboratory and until 1998 she was dancing and farming with her troupe Maijuku directed by Min Tanaka. In 1998 she began to work on her own and went back to Niigata. Today, she mainly does solos and improvises with a variety of artists and musicians in different countries. She is dancing mostly outside theaters in old buildings, empty factories, on the road, in the nature, as well as collaborating with local artists, traditional musicians and non-professional theater in her city. Since 2005 she has visited and participated in small areas traditional dance Bon Odori. She was artistic co-director at The Water and Land - Niigata Art Festival 2012.
